
OUR MANAGEMENT STATEMENT

At a time of undeniable change that has shaken the modern global order, we are placing even greater emphasis on the responsibility of our actions. The global economic downturn has affected each of us in a personal way. This particular moment in history makes us realise once again how profoundly important it is to return to the fundamental and precious values of partnership, trust, loyalty and support.

Together with manufacturers, suppliers, partners, business agents and, above all, customers, our company forms a common system of these values. We believe that a common goal can only be achieved with the greatest concern for the common good.

We are responsible for the common good, creating a safe working space for ourselves and all those who work with us. We place great emphasis on our work ethic by implementing a comprehensive support system for our employees in times of crisis. At the same time, we thank each employee for his or her dedication, availability and reliability, allowing the whole company to continue providing services at all its levels.

We are responsible for the common good, offering our customers the opportunity to strengthen their business through a full range of products to meet their expectations. We offer a full range of tube printing in world-class quality and innovative 7-layer packaging with the option of adding nano-silver or biosensors.

We are responsible for the common good by making our product as environmentally friendly as possible. As standard, we offer a choice of PCR recycle for tubes and closures, making a significant contribution to reducing environmental footprint.

We are responsible for the local common good. Surrounded by mountains and magnificent nature, we always ensure that our activities are as nature-friendly as possible. In our industry this means, among other things, reducing energy and water consumption, an emphasis on post-production recycling and wise resource management.

We are responsible for the common good of those most in need and most affected by the COVID crisis by participating in various charities and collections.

Thanks to the experience and great commitment of our specialists, as well as your support, last year we expanded our machine park by adding more headmakers, injection moulding machines producing closures, printing machines including Flexo and silkscreen printing and a machine for metallizing closures. We have also expanded our range to include laminate tubes.

At the same time, we look to the future with even greater motivation and commitment. By taking responsibility for the common good, we believe that together we are able to contribute to developing the business of each of us.

Yours sincerely,
Management
